

Aviva makes amendments to their Relevant Life policy

Aviva launched its Relevant Life and Critical Illness policy in 2016 but following feedback they have today announced changes to the product.

The critical illness element of the product is being replaced by a benefit called "Employee Significant Illness" which has been agreed with key stakeholders and HRMC.

The product is available from 11th March on Aviva's systems and from 12th March on LifeQuote.

The key changes are:

- The removal of critical illness
- The introduction of employee significant illness cover, providing cover for lots of conditions including advanced cancer, serious heart attack and stroke in the event they lead to retirement of the life covered.

Existing Relevant Life and Critical Illness policies will not be affected by the changes.

You can quote for this product on LifeQuote in the same way that you currently quote for Relevant Life and Critical Illness.
